Floris Bosch

Hello everyone, I'm Floris Bosch, and it's a pleasure to connect with all of you through this newsletter. I was born in Woerden and have since made Utrecht my home. My academic journey has been centered around my passion for history, international relations, and development cooperation.

My educational background includes a Bachelor's degree in History, along with a minor in International Relations. Building on this foundation, I pursued a Master's degree in East European Studies to deepen my understanding of the world. I have now completed my studies and I've joined the NICC Foundation for an internship to gain hands-on working experience.

What excites me the most is the opportunity to contribute to NICC's timelines. I'm particularly drawn to the development cooperation timeline, as well as the Tanzania and world citizenship timelines.

October 2nd Kick-Off

On the second of October we organized a Kick-Off event to commemorate 75 years of Dutch Development Cooperation.

After months of hard work and intensive cooperation between resource persons and interns we organized the 75 Years development cooperation kick-off event. We came together at the National Archives in The Hague and successfully kicked off the preparations for the year in which development cooperation in the Netherlands will turn 75.

It was a dynamic kick-off event which brought together professionals and enthusiasts in the field of development cooperation and archival research. Attendees enjoyed insightful presentations highlighting the intersection of these two vital areas.

The event successfully fostered networking and knowledge sharing, promising a collaborative and impactful future in the realm of international development and archiving.
